بِسْمِ اللَّهِ الرَّحْمَنِ الرَّحِيمِ

Assalāmu 'alaykum wa raḥmatullāhi wa barakātuh,

Dear Sir,

May Allah preserve you in health and faith, and grant you and those with you safety and ease in your travels. We ask after the journey, and pray that it went well. Kindly convey my greetings to the family.

All praise is due to Allah, by whose grace good works are completed.

PO/2026/10/0023

With a heart full of gratitude, I share with you, among those dearest to me, the completion of my Arabic work صناعة المتكلم العربي (Ṣinā'at al-Mutakallim al-'Arabī — The Art of the Arabic Speaker: From Purity of the Tongue to Perfection of Expression). It comes in eleven volumes, spanning 5,479 pages.

Why this book. Many who have studied Arabic for years, and know its grammar and its rhetoric, still do not find it on their tongue when they need it: in a lesson, a sermon, a meeting or a conversation. Our books teach the rules of the language and the analysis of fine speech. Few of them take the learner by the hand from knowing Arabic to speaking it well. This work was written for that gap.

What it brings together. The work gathers into one graded path what lies scattered across many books:

- Sībawayh and Ibn Jinnī on the sound and structure of the language.
- Ibn al-Jazarī on the points and qualities of the letters.
- al-Jāḥiẓ and 'Abd al-Qāhir al-Jurjānī on bayān and the ordering of speech.
- Ibn Khaldūn on the acquired faculty (malaka).

Alongside these, it draws on what modern studies of communication have reached. Classical texts are quoted in their own words and cited to their editions by volume and page.

Its path. It opens with a question that cannot be avoided: which Arabic are we to speak? It then goes in four stages:

- 1 Grounding: the fundamentals of speech, pronunciation, the natural Arabic sentence, and the ordering of speech.
- 2 Communication: context, courtesy and dialogue.
- 3 Platforms: the circle of learning, the sermon, the lecture, the interview and the meeting.
- 4 Mastery: media, official discourse and negotiation, ending in improvisation and the acquired faculty.

The Reference volume. An eleventh volume serves as a reference. It holds a Bank of Errors, which gives each error with its correction, its explanation and its severity. It also holds an applied dictionary of expressions, a dictionary of literal-translation errors, and complete model texts.

It would honour me if you would share in this joy, and remember the work and its author in your du'ā'. I ask Allah to accept it, to make it sincerely for His Face, and to make it of benefit to all who read it. Your counsel and observations would be most welcome.

With love and respect,

Ahmad Sulaimi
